That works for me if Hamed is available then.

Maxie and Hamed, thanks very much. No worries! 😊

Great job today on the demos. I think you both have a good first plan. Hopefully we were able to give you some tips to make things go more smoothly.

Can you meet on Friday at 3 pm?

Best wishes,
Klara

Hi

I am also sorry for not putting the watermark of your name. It was partly my fault too.

If tomorrow is not working, I guess I will be in the hotel on Friday evening, so I might be able to meet at that time too.

Thanks again for all the material.

Bests

Klara,

I wanted to say sorry again for removing the watermark you had on all the original power point slides in the Math 1552 repo of course materials you shared with Hamed and I last week. This was my error, and I have added a credit back to each of the header slides about the original sources of the adapted material for this summer's lectures. Are you OK with the way I acknowledge your sources now (screenshot of a title slide attached)?

The reason I removed the watermark was because I changed the theme (I prefer the light blue gradient background for contrast writing on the tablet). The original watermark was in bright orange, which clashes with the new color scheme. There were also some inconsistencies about the dates: some from 2017, 2019, and 2020. Do you want me to add a credit for the sources of other course materials like studio section handouts on Canvas?

Are you meeting with Hamed and I tomorrow or Friday to help us plan for the first week? I would like to test out the technology with my new Mac setup over BlueJeans with both of you when we meet. Please let me know what works.
