

Atlanta / GTPD Police Report Notes

Drafted / Revised: 01/23/2019

These are a short list of points in my recollection that I want to make sure get explained in order and well by the interviewing detective and VOICE counselor that has accompanied me as an advocate today:

- Can provide many other forms of records, accounts, documentation, etc. as needed per request
- Un-laundered garments still available, kept in a duffle bag in Pensacola, FL if relevant after all of this time has passed
- Notes / concerns about the “Beer Bash” culture at UW and being around men and male professors in the math department there
- Jason Zych’s problems with women are historical, documentable and not limited to just me ...
- To be completely honest, I do not remember the actual physical assault well. What I do have more details of note about are the circumstances leading up to the rape and on the aftermath of what happened to me once I experienced the physical symptoms of what had happened in a more lucid state.
- This (I believe “started”) with an unattended energy drink left in my office for a short period of time while I was outside the math building at UW smoking a cigarette
- Went to a completely new psychiatrist later that afternoon at the University of Washington campus health center a 1minute or so walk from the math building (Dr. Lampe)
- End of the day “mercy” appointment scheduled on my behalf earlier that week by a RN at the health center. Pharmacy and appointment records date the length of the appointment at upwards of two hours in duration.
- The shrink had a thinly veiled erection I remember while talking with me
- Information from the RN and my former Saint Louis psychiatrist (Dr. Fred G. Hicks) mental health records (of over 7 years) included (based on my printouts of online health information at UW) recent and historical sexual history, my drinking frequency and preferences, and my physical local address a short walk from campus in Seattle, WA at that time
- The alternate doctor wrote me / handed me in person prescriptions for 70mg Vyvanse and 10mg Adderall tablets which I have historically taken to control my adult ADHD. These two scripts in particular are schedule 2 controlled substances which require a DEA-registered MD to dispense them. Anything short of these qualifications is tantamount to engaging in federal drug trafficking. The second doctor (as I remember the order of things) also said he routinely wrote / dispensed prescriptions to veterans. Can the police with my medical record authorization check on the consistency of the signature on UW pharmacy scans of these controlled substance prescriptions dispensed / filled that day?
- The second doctor did not initially recognize the “Vyvanse” prescription and needed my assistance locating the script to print out on the office computer system.
- I had one final good (semi-lucid) look at the second form of the doctor that day before I exited the UW psychiatrist’s small back room office at what I perceived to be the end of my initial appointment at that time.
- Kevin Mitnick and I “met” in his sysadmin ruse in my on-campus UW math department office. This incident seems far too coincidental to me to be ignored in a proper, thorough investigation of the facts at hand here.

Concerned stalking incidents featuring Jason Zych, a former UIUC lecturer in Computer Science, who I have been told is now believed to live in a Chicago, IL suburb:

- He stalked me on campus in 2005 while I was in his class. And in STL for several years on-and-off in his red Toyota car with a gold hood emblem.
- Brown Dodge RAM pickup truck with IL tags in PFL circa 2016;
- White pickup truck in PFL a few times driving slowly and/or following me in my mother’s vehicle over 2015-2017;
- Driver of a black Cadillac Escalade in Urbana, IL when I was a MS student (could potentially be coincidental)
- Sea foam greenish (not certain of the exact color here) Range Rover SUV in SWA (2014-2015)
- In the passenger’s side seat with a young female driver (shortish chin length hair and a camisole top) in the parking lot of Publix in PFL (don’t remember the exact timeline, 2015-2017 definitely); Car would have been a black sports / older looking muscle car;
- With his (?) mother staring at me in my tankini in PFL. I can pick them both out of a line-up if it comes down to it;
- In ATL several times (I believe); At least once for certain glaring at me for an email exchange with Cinda Heeren about him in February of 2018.
